

Understand what's culture got to do with it at the Westman Safety Conference

The Westman Safety Conference is returning to Brandon, MB, on April 18 & 19, 2018, with an assortment of two-, one- and half-day courses that speak to the needs of all industries.

Our half-day course, What's Culture Got To Do With It?, talks about the culture of collective attitudes and behaviours surrounding workplace safety and how you can move your workplace in a positive direction towards embracing safety-related values.

Mike Jones, Executive Director of the Construction Safety Association of Manitoba, says that this course will open new discussion around what constitutes safety culture.

"This course is designed to provide participants with new ideas on how to review your workplace safety culture and new tools to communicate values, beliefs and dimensions that shape culture."

What's Culture Got To Do With It? is a half-day course offered on April 18, 2018. Seating for this course is limited - to register, visit www.westmansafety.ca.

If you're interested in this course, you might also be interested in Hazard Identification & Risk Control, Principles of Safety & Health Management and Safety Essentials for Leaders / LSE - all offered at the 2018 Westman Safety Conference!
